Notes:

- The CB21 rubric reflects exit competencies, applies to both noncredit and credit, and the columns are not meant to be matched to levels.
- The rubric is not a list of course topics, nor is it a list of all things covered.
- Just because something is not included in the rubric, this does not mean faculty should not include it in their CORs.
- The rubric provides typical and general overarching outcomes to describe the competences of a course, not all of the course content.
- An ESL course equivalent to transfer-level composition (TLC) is not included in this rubric. That course should be coded CB21 = Y.
